

NASA Johnson Space Center Lifesaver Award

Sponsored by Occupational Health and the JSC Safety Action Team, (JSAT)

Background

JSAT

- Employee involvement committee
- Chartered to be the employee's voice for HS&E issues at the Center.
- Representatives from all organizations
- Active in employee recognition and motivation
- Meets with Center Management on a monthly basis

Occupational Health Training

- We provide several types of Emergency Medical Training, based on employee's job or because of a specific initiative, CPR, AED, BLS, First Aid, etc.
- Due to popular demand and excellent Senior Management support, we took a position to provide training to as many employees as our resources would allow. This policy was very much in line with our philosophy to "Take S&H Home".

Training Pays Dividends

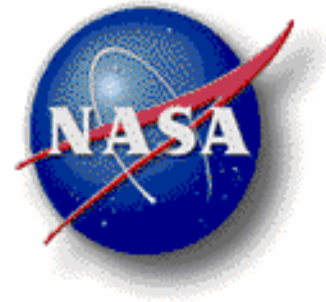

- Over time our emergency training began to pay off, AED's had been used on-site several times, employee's began to report using emergency training offsite to help others.
- These events were briefed to Senior Management as they occurred.
- Current numbers
 - Emergency Medical Training
 - Heart Attack Awareness ~3000
 - CPR ~3900
 - First Aid ~387
 - AED Users ~1900 (900 active)
 - AED's at JSC ~70

A Committee is Born

At a meeting with Senior Management, Colonel Bob Cabana, JSC Deputy Director (left), expressed to Byron Winters, 2004 JSAT Chair (right), that he wanted to recognize those employees who used the lifesaving training that they had received at JSC.
